Blast Rips Store, Two Stores Burn

KANSAS CITY (AP)-An explosion ripped out the top three floors of a 7-story downtown department store shortly before midnight Monday night. Burning debris rammed through a 2-story furniture store next door. Both buildings were destroyed by fire.

A smaller clothing store and another furniture store also caught fire. There was water and smoke damage at a number of other businesses.

The 7-story E. C. O. store and the Star Furniture Co., between 12th and 13th street on Grand Avenue were destroyed. E.C.O. (Employes Consumer Organization) was a discount merchandising house that included 14 different concerns

Ronald Davis, a night watchman for the Banker's Patrol, was standing about a block away on Grand when the explosion occurred. He said:

"The roof of the E. C. O. building jumped about 20 feet and came down in a mass of flames. There was debris flying everywhere."

There was only one known injury. Flying glass cut tendons in the left wrist of Gary D. Wynes, 25. He was walking opposite the E. C. O. building when the explosion occurred.

Not too long ago our relations with neighboring Canada appeared to be deteriorating. Now we have fresh evidence they have been restored to fuller, if not complete health.

Canadians became gravely disturbed over a heavy imbalance of trade with the United States. Our mammoth investment in Canadian industry suggested to many that we placed them in some sort of colonial status. They felt also that we took them too much for granted as friends and allies. It is not entirely clear to what extent our own political and economic efforts have altered the situation. But that it is improved is evident from the tone and content of the speech delivered to the governor's conference our stepping up our Canadian purchases. But Diefenbaker at Glacier chose to dwell on the firmness and permanence of US-Canadian ties, and on the massive size of these countries' mutual trade.

Big Money Behind Kennedy, Johnson

one week hence will start choosing between two men as its nominee for President of the United States. Both men, Lyndon Johnson and John F. Kennedy, have some excellent qual-

This writer, who has known both candidates for a number of years, herewith undertakes to analyze the virtues and the defects plus the power behind them.

It happens that both men have wealth behind them. Kennedy inherited his wealth. His father, from a relatively modest start, has become one of the 75 wealthiest men in the United States. His wealth has been a material factor in financing one of the nost amazing publicity buildups since the days of Wendell Willkie plus a successful and very expensive primary campaign which most other candidates couldn't afford

Johnson, on the other hand, started as a poor Texas schoolteacher, has acquired a modest fortune through the acquisition of Radio-TV stations which have been highly aucrative and which were not hurt at all by Johnson's strategic position in Congress.

Money talks very big in American politics today - which is the chief reason why Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, one of the most courageous members of Congress, had to bow out of the presidential race. And in analyzing the two top Democratic contenders, you have to consider the money behind them. Let's take Johnson first.

Oil behind Johnson

The Senator from Texas did an amazing thing the other day. For a man running for president it was courageous. But it showed clearly where Johnson's money is coming

Johnson stood up on the Senate floor and led the battle against reduction of the 27-1/2 per cent oil depletion allowance. He didn't have to do this. He could have ducked. But

Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois, like an elderly Don Quixote tilting at windmills, was valiantly waging his annual battle to close one of the biggest tax loopholes. He knew he couldn't win. But he staged the fight, and rolled up 30 votes against the oil-gas compaines. Johnson, leading the opposition, beat him with 56 votes.

It should be noted that the really big oil money will be behind Nixon in November, The Pew family which owns Sun Oil contributed $206,800 to the GOP in '56; The Mellons, who own Gulf Oil, threw in $150,000: while the Rockefellers, owners of Standard Oil, enriched the GOP kitty by $152,604 in '56. Oil taxes

Some oil compaines, of course, play both sides of the political street. And when you see what they have at stake in profits and taxes you can understand why. Senator Douglas cited some figures. But he withheld names, This column is not going to withhold the names. Here is the tax picture of some of the compaines which will help pick the next president of the United States:

Kerr-McGee - owned in part by Sen. Bob Kerr of Oklahoma - managed to chalk up so many deductions under the tax loopholes in 1958 that it paid absolutely no income taxes at all on $5,378,973 net income

The most taxes the company has paid in the past 10 years was $1,727,910 in 1957 on $7,972,558 net income. This was still less than 22 per cent tax, compared to the 52 per cent rate other corporations are required to pay.

The seven channels which they were assigned to watch, from 7 a.m. one day until 1 a.m. the next, jammed 7,887 commercials into their daily programs during the survey period. That's an average of 1,125 per station for a week and 160 a day on separate channels. The high in commercials for a single day was one station's 343. That's more than one every three minutes.

If individual experience with late, late movies and with commercials on sports pregrams leaves the impression that hucksters' spiels are even more frequent, probably there counted. The stuff television programs are Amade of put one in 10 researchers asleen. Asia.

On a net profit of $9.079,-022, the company paid no taxes in 1957 but collected a rebate of $5,860. Again in 1958, the company collected a $23,352 rebate to add to its net income of $7,076,455.

During the 10-year period, the company never paid more than 8 per cent, sometimes less than 1 per cent compared to the 52 per cent corporate rate for non-oil compaines. In 1951, for example, General American Oil paid only $404 on $4,447,673 net income.

Western Natural Gas managed to chalk up profits averaging above $1,000,000 each year, yet has not paid a penny in income taxes for the past 10 years.

Significantly, 70 per cent of the oil depletion deductions are taken by the giant compaines with assets over $100,000,000. Their tax savings, of course, must be made up by the lettle people who end up paying most of Uncle Sam's bills.

The King of Siam

The King of Siam (now called Thailand), and his beautiful wife Queen Sirikit, have returned to the king's birthland. King Bhumibol-Adulyade (pronounced Poom-ee-pom Adulun-det) is the only king born in the United States. While his father was studying medicine at Harvard 32 years ago, the present king was King Bhumibol came to the throne at the age of 19-in 1946 while studying in Switzerland. He did not become ruler immediately but went back to his studies where he met and married his queen.

The present Thailand, to most Americans, is the land of music and mystery portrayed in the Rogers and Hammerstein musical. "The King and I." But to Russia, Thailand, a country as large as France, with 22 million people, it is a land greatly sought for its natural resources. To the Pentagon and the State Department, Thailand is the keystone to the defense of Southeast Asia and a vital member of SEATO which has its headquarters in Bangkok, the capital of Thailand.

Thanks to the young rulers of Thailand. their nation is pro-Western. They speak fluent English. They are devoted to their people and frequently set the examples for new practices which will be for their welfare. For example, when food experts suggested that the Siamese breed more fish in their rice paddies to get added protein in their diets, the King made the program popular by raising fish in a palace pool. Also to make an anti-cholera vaccine popular during an epidemic, the king gave his people confidence by taking the first injection in public.

The rulers of Thailand have four children, three girls and a boy, not quite as many as the legendary King of Siam, but a good sized family at that. They are schooled to their father's jazz music and picture taking, and

Harry Truman Steals the Headlines

WASHINGTON (AP)It was a strange performance.

Former President Truman got headlines in a sensational wayby implying next week's Democratic convention is rigged-but there are still some unanswered questions about Truman himself.

"A convention which is controlled in advance by one group and its candidate leaves the delegates no opportunity for a Democratic choice and reduces the convention to a mockery," Truman

After a few more paragraphs in the prepared statement Truman, without making a direct link between the alleged rigging and the Kennedy forces, said he was disappointed in "the manner in which some of the backers" of Kennedy have acted although he more or less absolved Kennedy himself from taking part in whatever they are supposed to have done

The point is that Truman never actually said what the Kennedy forces did.

At the news conference which followed a reporter asked Truman to get down to cases and say "what you have in mind." Truman avoided a direct reply by saying the answer was in his prepared statement, although it

At the preliminary runoff the "Brothers of the Brush" assembled for the first judging. There were beards that would make the famous Bluebeard and Rip Van Winkle look like amateurs.

The 13 classifications were: the best all-around beard; fanciest beard; The Van Dyke; the Robert E. Lee; the Abraham Lincoln; the goatee; muttonchops; the halo; burnsides; sideburns; best mustache; the most pitiful beard; and colors including the best of pure white, gray, blonde and the twotone and three-tone beards (no dyes permitted).

It would seem that everyone of the contestants could win some award with such a varied classification, but many a bearded brother had to walk away with not so much as an honorable mention.

The "Brothers of the Brush" can be seen all over the country wherever a centennial, sesqui, or other pioneer community celebration is in progress. The beard adds interest, color and distinction to the festivities, and whether the bearded one wins an award or not is not important. It is the courage, determination, and competition during the growth period that adds to the fun and interest of the contest.

So the fight is on for control of a majority of Alabama's 58 delegates, each of whom has onehalf vote, for a total of 29. Johnson headquarters claims 20 of these votes, giving five to Kennedy, three to Symington, one to Stevenson.

Johnson's Washington headquarters has announced that Alabama's attorney general, McDonald Gallion, will head the Texan's delegates. Gallion was defeated in the election for chairman of the Alabama delegation.

The winner was Judge T. C. Almon, who had the backing of Gov. John Patterson, a Kennedy supporter. Behind this last fact is a story that goes back a year. when Patterson came to Washington to see Kennedy.

The arrangement supposed to have been worked out called for Patterson to wait till just before convention time, then poll the Alabama delegation and announce it was for Kennedy. The plan misto Alabama he let it be known he was for Kennedy. And the fight

One of the first kickbacks came from National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Some of its leaders regard Patterson as another Orval Faubus. And if Kennedy was receiving support from Patterson, the NAACP would take a dim view of the development. Since then, Kennedy has received few endorsements from prominent Negroes.

This was the situation when it was recently reported that Kennedy had told a New York Liberal party meeting he could win the Democratic nomination without a single Southern vote. Kennedy promptly denied the story.

Next day, before representatives of all the African embasies in Washington, Senator Kennedy spoke out vigorously in support of "equal access for all to the voting booth, to the schoolroom, to jobs, to housing and to public facilities including lunch counters . . . even if the new way to stand up for one's rights is to sit down."

Since then, Kennedy has written to all of the Southern delegates saying that he would welcome their support.

The situation is that while he might win the nomination without Southern delegates votes, he would like to have the Southern popular vote in November.

Also, Kennedy as Democratic presidential nominee can use the Northern Negro vote. He might win New York without it. But he would need it in key states like Pennsylvania, Illinois and Cali-
